

On September 21st, 2003 the Galileo probe successfully ends its mission by diving into Jupiter's atmosphere.

On September 21st, 2015 FILTREC launches its new website!

We're not just talking about a makeover; the launch marks a change of pace in our communications strategy that will make it easier to get the information you need about our products and our Company.

The new site is designed for easy and intuitive navigation. And it's fully responsive, too, so you can consult it with ease even from your smartphone.

You'll be able to access valuable information and helpful tools, but that's not all, much more is coming: this launch is just the beginning!

Launching the new filtrec.com